Montreal Citizens' Movement in NDG holds elections

Student to be MCM candidate

by Sheldon Goldfarb

A McGill post-graduate student was nominated last night to run for the Montreal Citizens' Movement (MCM) in next month's municipal elections.

Arnold Bennett, in his third year of an MA in labour history, was chosen to run for city councillor in Notre Dame de Grace.

He graduated with a BA from McGill in 1972 and is a teaching assistant for John Thompson's introductory course on Canadian history.

This year's editor of the McGill Daily Supplement, Bennett previously worked in various capacities for the McGill Daily, having joined the staff in 1969.

He has translated a book from French on Quebec strikes in the 1930s and 1940s and is now writing a book of his own on the Quebec general strike of 1972. He is also on the editorial board of the magazine Our Generation.

In an interview after being nominated, Bennett said he has worked with the MCM since it was formed and had worked with the FRAP opposition group in the 1970 municipal elections. "For a long time, I've been interested in cleaning up the city and getting rid of (Mayor Jean) Drapeau."

Bennett said the MCM offers "an opposition that will serve people's needs."

"We are fighting for more open government, one that deals with the needs of citizens. In essence, we put people ahead of money."

Bennett said the MCM would establish neighbourhood councils, to which city councillors would be accountable. "This would make the councillors more responsive to the people."

The MCM would also abolish the present electoral system of large three-member districts and replace it with smaller one-member wards, Bennett said, so that a councillor could be closer to his constituents.

Bennett said an MCM government would open the city's finances to public view and eliminate the corruption

Haitians face return to 'hell'

This month, 1,500 Haitians living in Montreal will be deported to Haiti—a poverty-stricken island in the Caribbean ruled by one of the most repressive dictatorships in the world. These immigrants face imprisonment and even death upon arrival in Haiti.

Despite this, Canadian immigration is continuing deportation proceedings against these "illegal" immigrants and has rejected all appeals to grant them political asylum in Canada.

Members of the Haitian community in Montreal, have launched an urgent campaign to try to stop these proceedings. What follows is an analysis by a Haitian student of conditions in Haiti today—conditions, that explain the presence of a large number of Haitians in Canada—and of Canada's real motives in deporting these Haitians.

Since 1971, after Francois Duvalier's death and the succession to power by his son Jean-Claude, the Haitian government has been presenting a false image of its political situation to the world.

To create this image, the government utilizes various means: its investment in tourism-oriented advertisements presenting a serene picture of Haiti; the sponsorship of Quebec participation in the "Flowers Carnival" held in Haiti during the summers of 1971 and 1973; and the appeals made to political exiles by Paul Blanchet (Minister of the Interior) promising to democratize public life at the French-speaking Medical Congress held in Port-au-Prince in February, 1974. These declarations serve only to gain a respectability and image of tranquillity in the eyes of foreign investors—"Haiti is a paradise for tourists."

Many foreign governments are aiding this venture of the Haitian dictatorship: West Germany; Israel; the Chiang Kai-Shek government; the United States through financial and military aid; France by a formal agreement of co-operation; and Canada through the government arm of the Canadian International Development Agency (CFDA).

Repression rampant in 'Haitian paradise'

Ironically, Haiti is hardly a paradise for its five million inhabitants. Repression has not ceased in the Jean-Claude regime and the democratic rights of Haitians are being violated at every turn. Arbitrary arrests of individuals diffusing anti-government ideas take place every day.

Over the years, the rise of popular dissent against the Duvalier dictatorship within Haiti has spurred it to discard any pretenses of liberalism and revert to more open brutal repression. With the assistance of American and French instruction, a special anti-guerrilla unit of the Tonton-Macoute—a gestapo-like secret police force—has been formed.

Despite much propaganda about major changes taking place in Haiti, enormous problems continue or have become aggravated. Jean-Claude Duvalier's government, like his father's, has proven itself incapable of dealing with the urgent problems facing the country today. Nothing has been done to combat poverty and starvation or to provide jobs for the swelling army of unemployed. Needless to say, the demands for respect of democratic rights and the liberation of political prisoners have been ignored.

In a desperate attempt to live as self-creative human beings, thousands of Haitians have escaped from their country—many risking their lives in doing so. Within Haiti, revolts against the destitution and repression are taking place. In Port-au-Prince, Petion-Ville, Jeremie—all over—the population is showing its discontent through open protests and the distribution of literature.

Regime stifles press

Obtaining accurate information about the present situation in Haiti is difficult,

YOU CAN SPREAD THE MESSAGE OF LOVE... THE LOVE OF CHRIST FOR ALL PEOPLE.

Have you ever considered the priesthood as a way to serve people? The Paulist Fathers are a small community of American priests. Progressive, searching, young and energetic, they form a religious family.

A Paulist is a man of the Spirit, a man of his time. He rejoices in the signs of hope around him and celebrates with the people he serves.

Every Paulist is a missionary: in the pulpit, or parish house, on the campus, in the inner-city. He communicates with the spoken word, the printed page, and with contemporary media. His mission is to all of America. His message is love; the love of Christ for all people.
